Suicide Prevention Programs and Initiatives

- Alaska’s Statewide Suicide Prevention Council, SSPC, (https://bit.ly/2yguaVk) was established in 2001 (AS §§ 44.29.300-44.29.390) and is currently housed within the Department of Health and Social Services. The Council’s charter was renewed in 2019, extending the termination date to June 30, 2027 (SB 10, adopted 7/8/19).
- The SSPC advises the governor and legislature on issues relating to suicide. In collaboration with communities, faith-based organizations, and public-private entities, the SSPC works to improve the health and wellness of Alaskans by reducing suicide and its effect on individuals and communities.
- Alaska law (AS § 14.30.362) requires school districts and the Dept. of Education and Early Development to provide youth suicide awareness and prevention training at no cost to every teacher, administrator, counselor, and specialist who is employed by the district or department; training must meet standards for professional continuing education credit and be periodically reviewed for consistency with generally accepted principles of youth suicide awareness and prevention. This training is required for individuals to be eligible for a teacher certificate (AS § 14.20.020).
- The Community Based Suicide Prevention Program (https://bit.ly/2XXQ7Gj) is housed within the Alaska Dept. of Health and Social Services Division of Behavioral Health. The program helps communities create projects to reduce self-destructive behaviors and conditions that lead to suicide and to increase individual, family, and community health. The program offers grants, training and postvention resources, and information through conferences and the Alaska Gatekeeper listserv.

Get Involved

The AFSP Alaska Chapter brings together people of all backgrounds in communities throughout the state to fight suicide. We help fund research, offer educational programs, advocate for public policy and support those affected by suicide.
